Floros May Run For 214 School Board

Leo Floros, Mount Prospect Dist. 57 school board member, said yesterday he is "seriously considering" running for the High School Dist. 214 board when his current term expires in April.

Floros, 44, announced in November that he would not seek reelection to the Dist. 57 board. He lives at 111 N. Emerson St. in Mount Prospect and has served on the elementary school board for four years.

Three Dist. 214 board seats will be filled by the April 8 election. Floros said he is considering becoming a candidate because "I am concerned and disappointed in the way the district is being run. It seems to me that not enough is being done to slow down the spiraling cost of operating the district, particularly in the area of administration."

Floros said he would make his final decision in one month. The period for filing nominating petitions, which must carry the names of at least 50 voters in the district, begins Feb. 23 and ends March 17.

"I think it's important we get more people on the 214 board who will question and probe — men and women who will not accept pat answers and instead will demand that taxpayers get full value for their school tax dollar," Floros said.

Floros feels Dist. 214 does not need nearly 100 administrators to run seven high schools, with one under construction. "Those administrators are being paid an average salary of $21,000-plus per year," he said. "Dist. 214 has a pupil enrollment of 17,400 which means there is one administrator per 174 students. By contrast, in Dist. 57 we have 12 administrators for 3,600 students — one administrator per 300 students."

Pointing out the same imbalance occurs in teaching staff, clerical help and custodians, Floros charged "there appears to be no effort on the part of the 214 administration to exercise prudent management control."

"That's one of the reasons why taxpayers in Mount Prospect pay almost as much to support a 4-year educational program in 214 as they do for a 9-year program in 57," he added. The Dist. 214 tax rate is $2.47 as compared to a $2.57 rate for the elementary district.

Floros' school board experience includes service as past chairman of the board negotiating team. He was also instrumental in attempts to sell vacant school property to obtain state funds for an expansion at Fairview School, 300 N. Fairview Ave., Mount Prospect.

The prospective candidate is the father of two daughters who attend Prospect High School. Currently he is employed by Selz and Assoc., a Chicago public relations firm.

2 Charged With Armed Robbery

Two men were arrested and charged by Schaumburg police yesterday in connection with the $17 armed robbery Dec. 28, of the 7-Eleven Store, 21 W. Wise Rd., Schaumburg.

The two are Melcher Cruz, 19, of Elk Grove Village and Terry De Gree, 19, of Streamwood.

Both are charged with two counts of armed robbery and one count of attempted robbery. Bond was set at $20,000 for each.

A warrant has been issued against Cruz by Bartlett police for the alleged armed robbery of a gas station also held on Dec. 28. Bond for the Bartlett robbery is $15,000.

Cruz was being held at Cook County Jail yesterday afternoon while De Gree was being processed by Schaumburg police.

The two are to appear in Schaumburg Court on Jan. 12.

one man's salary.

Another problem being solved is jurisdictional. Each man has been made a special county deputy sheriff, and can work anywhere in Cook County. They are working in communities that have not contributed men, said Emrikson, but only after informing local police chiefs. No man works in his own community, for security reasons.

Future MEG projects, such as the focus on organized crime, could also be

GASOLINE BUBBLES from an emergency valve after officials shut off a leaking gasoline pipeline in Elk Grove Township. The gas line leak was created yesterday when an electric wire fell and ruptured the pipe.

Electric Wire Ruptures Gas Pipe, Spillage Is Confined

A pipeline leak, caused by an electric wire being knocked down, resulted in a gasoline spillage in unincorporated Elk Grove Township yesterday afternoon. The flood was confined to a small creek when Mount Prospect fire and public works officials shut off the gas line and dammed up the creek.

The pipeline leak was created when a Greco Contractors Co. construction equipment crew accidentally knocked down an electric line. The electric current from the wire then apparently ruptured the pipeline in the ground. Mount Prospect Fire Chief Lawrence Paritz said.

Gasoline from the Badger Pipe Line Co. line flowed into a creek a few feet away but was confined to a small area on each side of Busse Road just south of Oakton Avenue by sand dams. Badger company officials said they would dig up the pipeline and repair it during the night.

The leaked gasoline was to be skimmed out of the creek also, although officials said there was little damage once the creek was dammed.

THE DOWNED electric line caused only a couple of momentary blackouts in the area, Paul Parker of Commonwealth Edison said. He said the light industrial area along Oakton was the only area affected.

Commonwealth officials said they planned to repair the line early this morning. Power for three businesses and the Oakton-Busse traffic signal were to be turned off while the repairs were federally funded, said Emrikson.

CURRENTLY THERE are only a few MEG throughout the country. The program is experimental, based on the concept some problems can best be handled cooperatively.

Funding has been granted for MEG in San Francisco, Denver and the state of Connecticut, and those programs are in varying stages of development or use. Problems faced in one part of the country may be similar to those already solved elsewhere, such as cooperative financing.

Middleton Hearing Resumes

A hearing to determine the mental competency of Dr. James G. Middleton to stand trial recessed without a verdict yesterday after the doctor told the jury that his wife is a former employee of the CIA.

The hearing is scheduled to resume at 11 a.m. today in Criminal Court in Chicago. At that time, attorneys for both sides are expected to make final arguments.

Dr. Middleton, who has offices at 969 Elmhurst Rd., Des Plaines, is charged with two counts of deviate sexual assault and aggravated battery.

If Middleton is ruled incompetent he will be committed for psychiatric treatment until he is able to stand trial. If the jury finds him competent, the trial will begin almost immediately.

Middleton said his wife was employed by the CIA, as he was, while he was relating to the jury an incident in which he claimed he was threatened at his former Chicago apartment.

HE SAID HE AND his wife faked an argument to delude a suspicious person in the building. He said they began the argument without a signal because he and his wife think alike, having both been employed by the CIA.

The doctor took the stand after the director of the county's Psychiatric Institute said Dr. Middleton is incompetent to stand trial.

The psychiatrist, Edward J. Kelleher, told the jury he thinks Dr. Middleton is suffering from paranoid schizophrenia — a psychosis — and cannot fully understand the charges nor fully cooperate with his lawyers.

Dr. Kelleher said he reached his opinion after evaluating results of several examinations taken by Dr. Middleton in which most of the responses were "guarded, evasive, and stilted."

He said Dr. Middleton demonstrated a lack of personal involvement, a lack of insight and suffers delusions of persecution.

The psychiatrist said Dr. Middleton once told him that he feared Donald Shaw, a Cook County sheriff's policeman, would obtain the test results and use them in extorting him. Dr. Middleton reportedly said Shaw, the officer who first arrested him, was the leader of a conspiracy against him.

DR. MIDDLETON said yesterday he does not know exactly who or how many persons were involved in the conspiracy or if it still exists. He also charged that Shaw had falsified evidence, changed police records and altered evidence relating to these charges.

Dr. Middleton said he has evidence of a "threat of continuity" dating to 1968 of attempted extortion of him when two women threatened "to get me out of practice."

He also said he has been threatened by Shaw and also by a man Dr. Middleton identified as "code name Frank," who offered to solve all his legal problems for a fee.

"Frank" was later arrested at the doctor's Chicago apartment by Chicago police, but was released without charges.

In a federal court last month, a U.S. treasury agent said this same man told police at the time of his arrest he was hired by Dr. Middleton to murder Shaw.

Judge Refuses To Fine Amy Huebert's 'Parents'

by MARGE FERROLI

Adoptive parents of 2½-year-old Amy Huebert will not be fined in addition to contempt of court charges for refusing to give up custody of the child to Amy's natural mother, Mrs. Paula Marshall of Arlington Heights.

Circuit Court Judge Helen McGillicuddy yesterday refused to place a $75-a-day fine on both Mr. and Mrs. Barry Huebert of Colorado Springs, Colo. for not following her Illinois court order of Dec. 14 requiring the immediate return of Amy to Mrs. Marshall.

Judge McGillicuddy upheld the contempt charges she found the Hueberts guilty of last week.

Mrs. Sylvia Decker, representing Mrs. Marshall, asked the court to impose the fine until Amy is returned to Illinois and asked the court to prevent the Hueberts from filing any additional motions on the case either in Illinois or Colorado. Both motions were denied by Judge McGillicuddy.

Mrs. Decker said after the hearing that she and Alice Bright, Mrs. Marshall's other attorney, will go "as soon as possible" to Colorado and try to quash juvenile court action there started by the Hueberts in an attempt to retain custody of Amy.

"I think we're going to win there," Mrs. Decker said. "Having the Hueberts found in contempt will be very helpful to us in Colorado."

The El Paso County (Colo.) District

Court has set April 24 to begin hearing a suit filed by the Hueberts fighting Mrs. Marshall's contention that Amy was taken from her under fraud and duress, which had been ruled and upheld by Illinois courts.

HOWEVER, THE court action would not be delayed until April if additional motions are filed by Mrs. Marshall in Colorado.

Mrs. Decker said she expected the Colorado courts to quash the Hueberts' motion once full information on the case is provided. She said "false statements" before the Colorado courts, "completely misleading" the courts there.

She said the petition claimed the Hueberts did not know where Mrs. Marshall or her agents could be found, "which is completely untrue."

If the adoption case continues in the Colorado courts, Mrs. Decker said she "would consider filing a federal suit" on the jurisdiction of courts in two states over the same case as outlined in the "full faith and credit clause" of the U.S. Constitution.

Leo Holt, attorney for the Hueberts, did not say whether he plans to file motions to appeal either the contempt charges or the denial of the adoption.

"At least they're (the Hueberts) not in jail and have no fine," he said.

In arguing against a fine before Judge McGillicuddy, Holt asked the court to "consider the loving feelings of my clients" in refusing to return Amy.

NOW! DRIVE IN WITH EASE AND COMFORT

EXPANSION PROGRAM NEARS COMPLETION

The new Drive-In facility of Arlington Heights Federal Savings is the first completed phase of the large-scale expansion that is doubling the capacity of the Association.

Three Drive-In stations with pneumatic tube service enable customers to transact business from their cars in less than a minute. Easily accessible from Evergreen Avenue, they provide ample room on Association property for entering cars, thus safeguarding against traffic congestion on Evergreen.

This is but one of many new facilities due for completion next spring in the expansion program of the $85 million savings institution. Others include four floors of service departments with elevator accessibility, a lobby almost three times its present size, eighteen teller stations instead of eight, and a computer installation with floating floor and refined temperature and humidity controls.

NOW! DAY-IN & DAY-OUT INTEREST

Arlington Heights Federal Savings now offers day-in and day-out interest on pass-book savings accounts. You may deposit and withdraw savings whenever you like and still collect interest for the full time your money is in your account. Our various savings programs produce the most for your resources without worry of risk or loss. Here are your choices:

6%

certificates pay this annual return for minimal opening balances of $5,000 or more, with a term of two years or more. Interest is compounded daily and paid quarterly; interest paid can be withdrawn at any time; if left in the account, the effective compounded interest rate is 6.18%. Federal regulations require a penalty of 90 days' accumulated interest on the amount withdrawn if 90 days or more have elapsed since the date of the certificate or from the beginning of any renewal period and all interest if less than 90 days have elapsed.

5<sup>3</sup>/<sub>4</sub>%

certificates pay this annual interest rate for deposits of $1,000 or more with a minimal term of one year. Interest is compounded daily and paid quarterly (on March 31, June 30, September 30, and December 31). The same provisions governing 6% certificates as to interest left in the account or principal withdrawn before maturity date apply to 5<sup>3</sup>/<sub>4</sub>% certificates.

5<sup>1</sup>/<sub>4</sub>%

certificates pay this annual rate for a term of three months to less than one year. Interest is compounded daily and paid quarterly, as with the certificates above, either by crediting to the account (5.39% effective interest rate) or by check as preferred. The same Federal penalties for withdrawal prior to term apply to 5<sup>1</sup>/<sub>4</sub>% certificates.

5%

annual rate is paid for our popular passbook accounts that offer maximal flexibility. No minimal balance is required. Additions and withdrawals may be made at any time. Interest is compounded daily and paid quarterly on a day-in and day-out basis if the account remains open to the quarter. Savings in by the 10th earn from the 1st if the funds are left on deposit to the end of the quarter.

YOU SAY you're a hockey lover who is tired of being shut out of the Stadium when the Black Hawks play or forced to pay exorbitant prices just for standing room?

You say you don't like having to settle for radio broadcasts or closed-circuit telecasts, again at steep prices?

You say you'd like a chance to watch some high-caliber competition not too far from home, like an above-amateur level?

Well, friend, maybe the new semi-pro Chicago Cardinals are just the thing for a New Year's present for you. And the feeling will be mutual if you don't mind paying a reasonable admission fare (something the Black Hawk management never heard of).

Plans were made last fall for the Cardinals, who have been in operation for 12 years in the Rockford area, to move to a Chicago-area base and play home games at the Twin-Ice Forum in Oakbrook Terrace. The Cards have played a few exhibition games on the road and will launch an independent 26-game home schedule Saturday, Jan. 15.

Readers of the Herald learned of this development long before other media picked up the news. Disclosure of the Cardinals' move and plans were told in this newspaper last Nov. 5 — 25 days before the official announcement was made.

Coach of the Cardinals will be a name familiar to area hockey fans. He is Gene Ubricco of Hoffman Estates, who played with the Black Hawks three years ago and currently is hockey pro at the Rolling Meadows Sports Complex.

Ubricco will be a special guest at the next Paddock Publications Pro Sports Club Luncheon at Old Orchard Country Club Monday, Jan. 10, along with Johnny and Jeannie Morris of NBC.

Also of interest to Herald area fans is the fact that two Arlington Heights men are on the Cards' roster. They are Sam Otriksen and Jerry Dunn. Both play the wing position, both played hockey through their schooling years, and both were members of the Cardinals in Rockford.

Edward Glaeser, chairman of the board and general counsel of the Cardinals, said Ubricco will be in complete charge of the team. He added, "We have the nucleus of a good team now, and with Gene coaching and scouting for new players, we are confident that the Cardinals can become a full-time, minor professional team by the 1972-73 season."

Actually, the half-season coming up is an experiment of sorts, similar to the one the ill-fated Northwest basketball Travelers tried last year. The Travelers, who played home games in the Prospect High School gymnasium, were forced to disband after one season.

But the Cardinals have high hopes of faring better, and with good reason. Fan interest has been high.

"We got about 3,000 phone calls in just the first three or four days (after the announcement)," said Ubricco. "By now, more than 6,000 have requested information on tickets and games, although we can't say yet how many season tickets we'll sell."

The Twin-Ice Forum has a capacity of 3,000 in a spanking new structure that the team feels is "the finest facility for hockey in the middlewest." The best tickets sell at $4.50 and general admission bleacher seats at $3, a far cry from the Hawks' sky-high prices at the Stadium, where you have to shell out $5 just to stand in the balconies!

Games will be played at home every Saturday night starting at 7:30 and Sunday afternoons beginning at 2:00. The schedule stretches from Jan. 15 to April 9.

Though the team is independent and not in a league, these games will be critical for the club's future.

"How we come out will let us know what to do next year," says Ubricco. "We'll have to see what caliber of hockey we can play. We'd like to be in the International League next year or be a farm team for a National Hockey League or World Hockey Association team. This is why we're starting in the middle of this season instead of waiting until next year — to give us time to find out."

Most of the players on the current roster have experience in college competition — which has improved vastly in recent years. A couple have played semi-pro before and some are fine amateurs coming back for another fling at the game.

Ubricco said one of the reasons for the experiment, besides providing fan entertainment, is that there is no local outlet for players above juvenile level (ages 17 and 18). The Cardinals offer good former college players — or top amateurs from Canada or points north — a chance to continue while living in this area "It should be good hockey — about the level of Senior play in Canada (for 20 and over)," says Ubricco.

The players will be paid by the game, according to ability, as well as sharing profits according to how good attendance figures are. Almost all players are otherwise employed fulltime. Several others besides Otriksen and Dunn are also from the north and west Chicago suburbs.

A top draw for the Cards could be another very familiar name, Howie Young. Young, a notorious "bad boy" in the National Hockey League with Detroit and Chicago in the early '60's, recently signed with the team for the same reason Ubricco is still in the game... simply a love for hockey.

Young, always popular in Chicago (at least as a Black Hawk) and considered both and talented enough to make it in the NHL, had to conquer alcoholism a few years back just to stay in the game. At one time he held the NHL record for most penalty minutes in one season, 173, while a Detroit Red Wing.

Now 34, Young conquered his problem and continued playing in the minors, but his pre-career came to an end last fall when he decided not to report to the San Diego Gulls of the Western Hockey League. Married to a Chicago girl, he has been working as a truck driver here in the off-season.

Young could be a big help to establishing the Cardinals in Chicago. He adds experience and a big name to the roster.

The team has been practicing hard five days a week in sharpening up for the important schedule against teams from Minnesota, Detroit and even Canada.

The next three months will provide a big opportunity — for both the team and local fans. The two groups need each other.

Schaumburg 2nd In Lake Park Meet

Paced by three individual champions, Maine West won the Lake Park Invitational wrestling meet last week in Roselle.

The warriors scored 91½ points and Schaumburg was second with 81. Glenbard East was third with 54, Romeoville was fourth with 52, Maine North was fifth with 47½, Lake Park was sixth with 43, Geneva was seventh with 39 and Rolling Meadows was eighth with 13½.

Maine West's three individual champs were Dave Gano at 132 pounds, Carl Sjostrand at 145 and Leon Wilkens at 167. Schaumburg had the most individual title winners with Blaine Bachus at 105 pounds, Jim Hill at 112, Guy Bedow at 126 and Andy Jones at 135.

Maine North's two individual title winners were Phil Kolpek at 119 pounds and Chester Dombek at heavyweight.

105 POUNDS
Rick Torres of Lake Park won the championship by beating Gary Evans of Schaumburg 4-2 in the finals. Evans reached the finals by beating Lowell Smith of Glenbard East by pin in 3:25 and by beating Bill Tramel of Maine West by pin in 1:45. Tramel reached the semi-finals by beating Scott Mühlenbacher of Geneva by pin in 1:57. Tramel lost to Mike Abney of Romeoville 3-1 in the match for third place.

Jack Horowitz won consolation bracket honors by beating Smith 2-0, and Roy Carlstrom of Rolling Meadows by pin in 36 seconds. In Horowitz' opening match, he lost to Torres 2-1. Carlstrom lost by pin in 1:46 in his first match. In the match for seventh place, Carlstrom lost 2-1.

105 POUNDS
Bachus of Schaumburg won the championship by beating Fred Gano of Maine West 6-2 in the finals, Conrad Dreyer of Lake Park 9-0 in the semi-finals and Dan Cooley of Rolling Meadows 8-0 in the first round.

Gano reached the finals by beating Doug Putz of Geneva 4-0 in the semi-finals and Bob Kanara of Glenbard East 4-0 in the opening rounds. Bob Russo of Maine North lost to Putz by pin in 3:57 in the first round, lost 6-0 to Kanara in the first round of the consolation bracket and then won on a bye in the consolation round of the consolation bracket.

Cooley lost to Bachus in first round action, got a bye in the first round of the consolation tournament and then lost to Kanara for the consolation title.

112 POUNDS
Hill won the title with a pair of pins in three matches. In the championship bout, he pinned Jeff Dexter of Glenbard East in 1:00. In the semi-finals, he defeated Barry Gardner of Geneva 6-2. In first-round action, Hill won via pin in 3:51 over Joe Wilhelm of Lake Park.

Ed Rappey of Maine West took fourth place by getting a bye in the first round, losing to Dexter 2-0 in the semi-finals and losing to Gardner 2-4.

Roger Mattix of Rolling Meadows lost to Dexter 7-0 in the first round, got a bye in the first round of the consolation tour-

Oakton Visits Harper Tonight

Harper College should be a stronger contender for the Skyway Conference basketball title after taking on some of the toughest teams in the state last week at Freeport.

The Hawks went 1-2 against three teams ranked ahead of them in the state's top 15 poll. Now they hope to use that valuable experience beginning tonight as they play three games in five days. Oakton College of Niles comes to test them at 8:00 in the Conant High School gym.

Despite their record in the Highland Classic, the Hawks still have the makings for an outstanding season with their 9-3 mark. Oakton is 5-3. However, in the league the Hawks are 4-0 while the Raiders are 0-2.

Breaking the Hawks' eight-game winning streak was Lakeland College. Then Rock Valley handed them their second straight loss, the first that's happened this season. All told, Harper's defense gave up a whopping 232 points in the two setbacks and head coach Dave Etienne is hoping his boys will bring that 114-point defensive average way below the 100 mark beginning tonight.

Other areas that need improvement, according to the Harper coach, are the opposition's pressing defense, getting po-

TIME: Game to begin at 8:00 p.m.

PLACE: Conant High School, Cougar Trail Road, Hoffman Estates.

COACHES: Tom Jordatt, Oakton; Dave Etienne, Harper.

Etienne was especially pleased with the showings of Kevin Barthule and Don Spry in the tournament. Barthule poured in the points (32 in three games) and displayed fine overall play; Spry was enjoying his best game to date against Rock Valley before fouling out in the second half.

Harper goes to Aurora against Wau-bensee on Thursday before coming back to Conant for a Saturday night game with Prairie State.

Men's Bowling Deadline Jan. 8

The deadline is Saturday for filing entries in the Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap bowling tournament for men.

Many entries have been processed already but tourney manager Anne Chalikis urges all eligible leagues to file as soon as possible to reserve their preferred squads.

First place teams as of Dec. 18 of all men's leagues competing within the area served by Paddock Publications are eligible for the big event at Elk Grove Bowl Jan. 22-23. Forty-two teams have signed up thus far with a total of 96 expected. First place teams as of Dec. 25 for women's and mixed leagues will be competing Jan. 29-30 at Striking Lanes.

Squad times include:
Men's tourney — Sunday, Jan. 23 at 12:30, 2:55, 5:20, and 7:45; Saturday, Jan. 22, at 3:00.

Women's tourney — Sunday, Jan. 30 at 12:00, 2:40, 5:20, and 8:00.

Mixed Tourney — Saturday, Jan. 29, at 6:15 and 8:30.

Reservations already received for the men's event are as follows:

South's jump to three no-trump was slightly unsound opposite his partner's weak two-club overcall, but South had no idea that his partner's hand was that weak. In addition, South had great confidence in his ability to play the dummy.

He started by putting up dummy's queen of diamonds. Then he entered his hand with a heart and led four of clubs. West played low and South jumped up with dummy's king. When it held South was home free. He abandoned clubs and took the spade finesse.

West was in with the king and cleared the diamonds, but he was too late. South collected three tricks in each major suit plus two diamonds and one club for his game.

"Nice play," said West. "West should have gone right up with his ace of clubs and beaten the contract."

East was wrong. South would still make his contract if West had played the club ace. West's best defense would be to play diamonds. South could take his ace now or hold-up one.

Then he would lead his last club. West would have to play low and the trick would be ducked to East's jack. East's best play would be a spade, but South would refuse the finesse and make his nine tricks and one spade, three hearts, two diamonds and four clubs.

County Board Holds 25 Minute Meeting

The Cook County Board, perhaps reflecting resolutions of speed and efficiency for 1972, honored the county comptroller and transacted business in 25 minutes yesterday morning.

Just before the meeting, Comr Lillian Piotrowski of Chicago praised C. R. Hodgman on his 50th wedding anniversary.

Most of the commissioners, it seemed, attended a party for Hodgman over the weekend. Mrs. Piotrowski said it was a noteworthy party and, as did other commissioners, congratulated Hodgman.

Little of special interest was approved during the meeting, except the usual review of court orders, reports, zoning applications and submission of bids on various items county government needs.

The board accepted an application for rezoning of 26 acres of property at the northeast corner of Willow Road and Wolf Road in Prospect Heights.

The petitioners asked the rezoning — from one multiple-family classification to another — as Dist. 21 is condemning part of the property in conformance with county regulations.

Let's Examine Heart Unit

A recently introduced plan to save the lives of heart attack victims by use of a special mobile unit deserves consideration for the entire Northwest suburban area.

The unit, suggested by an Inverness woman and already in use in 50 communities across the United States, could provide critical stop-gap service between home and hospital. It is the kind of project which area hospitals and the Northwest Municipal Conference might do well to study.

Initial local research on the unit was done by Janet Schwettman of Inverness. At least three other communities could be contacted by Mrs. Schwettman about the proposal.

The unit consists of a shock machine to restore the victim's heart-beat and a two-way radio from the unit to the nearest hospital's emergency ward. The equipment could be contained in a regular fire department vehicle.

Heart attacks create a special medical problem, according to Mrs. Schwettman, because most deaths occur within ten minutes after the heart attack.

Considering the amount of time it can take to reach a local hospital, there's a need for some sort of system which can provide on-the-scene or on-the-way medical treatment.

If this area were smaller, or if traffic congestion were not as severe as it is, or if there were more hospitals scattered through the Northwest suburbs, there might not be a need for such a unit. However, it can take 15 or 20 minutes to reach a hospital — enough time to lose a heart attack victim.

About 50 communities have such units. Tulsa, Okla., which recently set one up, expects to save 20 lives during its first year of operation, according to Mrs. Schwettman.

The plan at this stage is little more than a suggestion. There's little public indication that officials are seriously considering the proposal. But it does seem to offer something to trim the toll of heart attack deaths in the suburbs.

If communities could cooperate in setting up such a unit, there are endless possibilities. For example, two or more of the units could be scattered around the Northwest suburbs at various fire stations or hospitals. Firemen, medical students or doctors could man them around the clock or on call.

The result could be a system which would coordinate the logistics of transportation and medical treatment. Life-saving first aid could be provided while the hospital prepares to provide back-up medical help when the patient arrives.

However, any use of such a system would require the complete cooperation of the hospitals and the communities affected. The hospitals should be polled as to their interest in such a system. Hospital officials could also contribute ideas leading to the development of a feasible plan.

Then the Northwest Municipal Conference, which is composed of 15 area communities, could examine such basic questions as the price tag and location of the units.

The Conference in recent months has suffered from a massive dose of disinterest by officials of some member communities. This is an opportunity for the Conference to consider a concrete plan which could be of substantial benefit to member communities. It is a logical topic for the broad-based Conference to consider; it could work, and the Conference could make it less costly for those communities which wished to participate.

One Hazard Ended

Effective after last Friday, all new eyeglasses and sunglasses sold in the United States must be made with lenses of heat-treated glass or other impact-resistant material.

Exempted under the Food and Drug Administration ruling are contact lenses, which already are normally made of impact-resistant plastic, and glasses prescribed in cases where an eye doctor finds that impact-resistant lenses will not meet the visual requirements of a particular patient.

The new regulation is a praiseworthy step toward eliminating one avoidable safety hazard in our daily lives. An estimated 100 million Americans wear prescription glasses, with three-quarters of them using lenses of untreated glass.

There is a caveat, however. Bausch & Lomb, one of the original promoters of the idea and developer of an improved heat-treating process, warns that "impact-resistant" does not mean "breakproof."

The prescription glasses you buy after Dec. 31 will be stronger than they would have been before — technically, they must be able to withstand the impact of a 5/8-inch steel ball dropped from a height of 50 inches — but they will not be the same as industrial safety glasses.

Persons whose occupations or hobbies put their eyes in unusual hazard are still advised to wear safety glasses and/or protective goggles.

Traffic Jams On The Ocean?

By this time, most everyone has heard of the Wankel rotary engine, which promises to revolutionize the automobile industry.

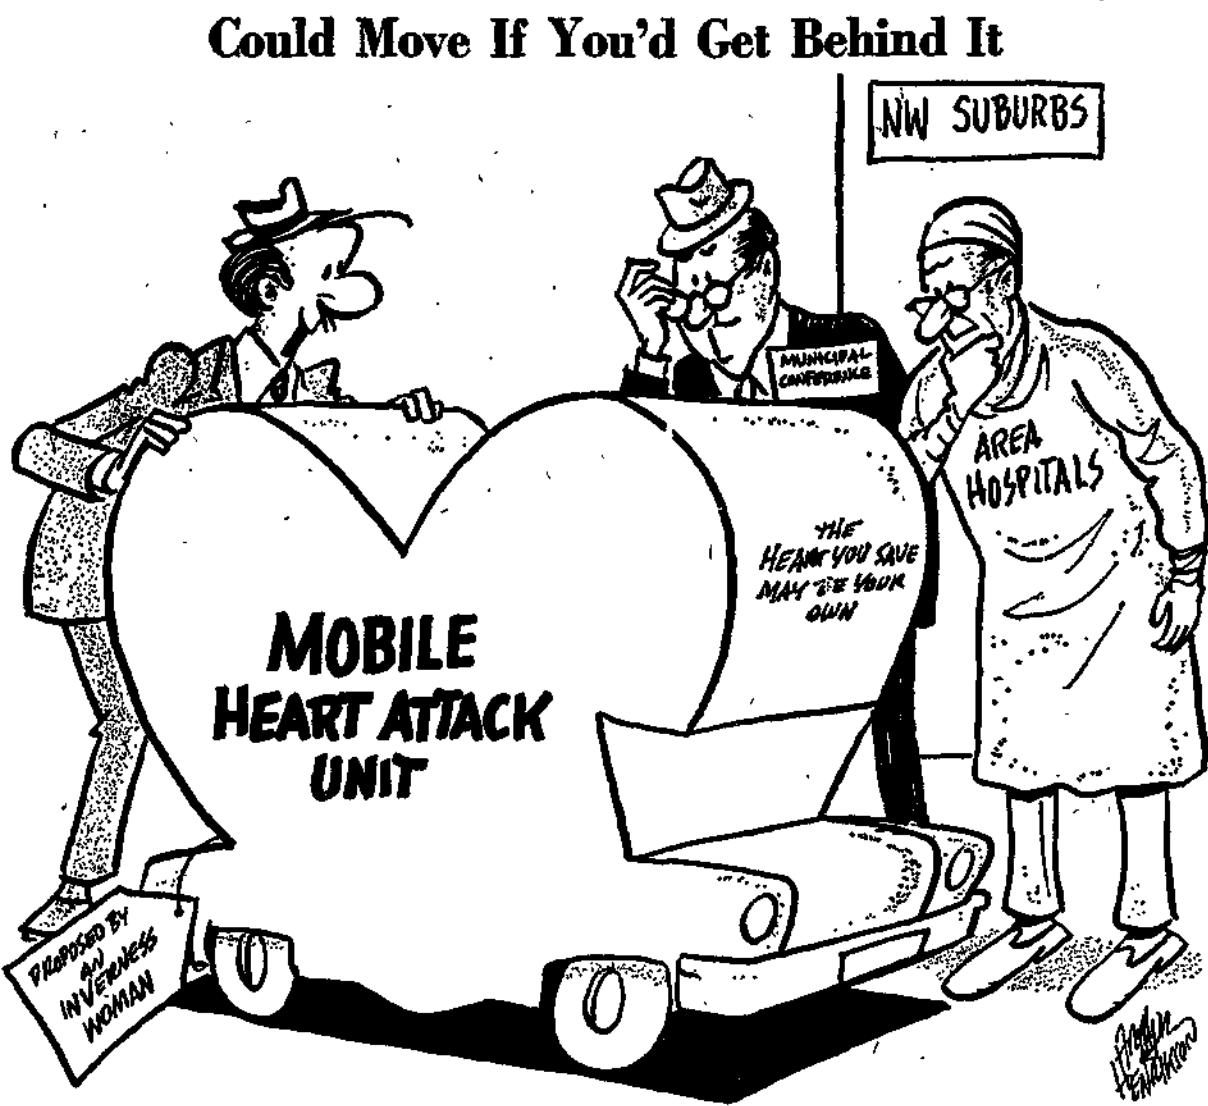

German inventor Felix Wankel has just unveiled his latest achievement, which could revolutionize it all over again: An ocean-going motor car.

With a plastic-covered cabin like a fighter plane and a shape like a porpoise, his "Zisch 69B" is designed to negotiate calm waters on glider fins similar to a hydrofoil. At speedboat speed, it could travel hundreds or thousands of miles in this fashion.

In rough seas, however, the Zisch would plow right through large waves like a submarine. Hence the enclosed cabin.

Wankel has tested a scale model on Lake Constance and expects to try out a full-size, four-to-six-passenger prototype next spring. In terms of price, size and interior, a mass-produced Zisch, he believes, could be to ocean travel what the automobile has been to land travel.

Considering what the automobile has done to the landscape, the prospect of a seascape covered with Zisches is not quite as exciting as it might be.

Dorothy Meyer's Column

Looking Forward In '72

Move over, Jean Dixon, the poorman's prognosticator is going to do some forecasting for the new year too. Not only will I predict what's going to happen in 1972, but later in the year I will refrain from pointing out how accurate I was in case I'm right.

On the national political front I predict that, as a result of too many candidates with too many long-winded campaigns, the United States will become a monarchy in 1972. This will happen on the Tuesday following the Sunday on which the baseball season ends before the football, hockey or basketball season begins, or November 7, whichever comes first. The king will be chosen by a royal committee made of Hubert Humphrey, John Wayne, two Mayor Daley rejects, Miss America and, as special advisor from England, John Lennon.

I foresee great conflict between the ecology/conservation bloc and industry. Snowblowers will be outlawed as a result of a powerful E/C lobby, but industry will bounce back with a slushmobile for city and side-street recreation. Electric power companies will continue to be the bad guys on the pollution scene and while they struggle to keep up with the nation's demands without adding to the nation's pollution, industry will produce more and more electrical gadgets. Ready for the 1972 Christmas market will be the electric girdle remover, martini olive ejector and anti-pollution protest sign.

Major strides will be made in medical research, and cures for baldness and the common cold will be found. For their discoveries, Dr. M. I. Curley and Dr. Iva Sniffle will share the Nobel prize for medicine and immediately begin working on cures for two new ailments, falling beard and the inverted gargle.

Also in the realm of awards, I predict that Jimmy Hoffa will win the Nobel Peace Prize, the Cubs will win the World Series and Jesus will win an Academy Award.

On the international scene I predict that, as proof of Communism's worldwide success and as a gesture of good will toward world peace, the Berlin Wall will be removed and Cuban refugees in the United States and Chinese in Hong Kong will return to their homelands.

In the matter of geophysics I see Ottumwa, Iowa falling in, not off, the continental United States. The Great Ottumwa Collapse will prove the UFO-Hollow Earth theory — that UFOs are the escape vehicles of a civilization living below the earth's crust and endangered by underground nuclear testing. However, it will not be nuclear testing, but the world's biggest rock fest held in Iowa's biggest cornfield which will cause the mass evacuation of Hollow Earthites living directly below Ottumwa. Perforations made by the UFOs will act like a geophysical "tear along dotted line" — and Ottumwa will fall in.

Unless the Coal-Burning Alarm Clock rock group and George Meany appear in Sacramento at the same time, I do not see California falling off the continent this year.

As for the drug problem, I see Timothy Leary disavowing LSD and simultaneously embracing the Baha'i religion, Yoko Ono and Dinah Shore.

Finally, I predict a mass return to morality in private life, total integrity in political life and good looking shoes to the world of women's fashion.

But I wouldn't bet on it.

Humphrey Hits Primary Route

by BRUCE BLOSSAT

Sen. Hubert Humphrey thinks he can't make a serious 1972 presidential bid unless he proves himself in the primaries the way Richard Nixon chose to do in 1968.

"I think that's the honest way to do it," he said in an interview. "I don't believe I should ask a lot of people to help me if I can't deliver."

In 1968, of course, Humphrey won the Democratic nomination without running the gamut of primaries. He confesses he'd like to avoid them again, but sees no way.

To suggestions that he should hang back and wait for possible stumbles by front-running Sen. Edmund Muskie and some others, a Humphrey aide says: "If we did that, I don't think there'd be any places to pick up."

The comeback strategy in Humphrey's mind today really does have strong parallel with that shaped by the Nixon camp four years ago. Nixon aides said they decided early there was no point in putting a twice-beaten man through a campaign ordeal again unless they had a reasonable chance to go all the way. Listen to Hubert:

Austin Order Is Challenged

On December 23, Federal District Judge Richard B. Austin ordered the Department of Housing and Urban Development to draw up its own plans for placing public housing units in Chicago and suburbs within sixty days.

This order, if allowed to go unchallenged, means that your local city or village council will no longer have any say in the establishment of public housing in any of the six suburban counties where Judge Austin's edict will overrule local government considerations. The six counties affected are Cook, DuPage, Kane, Lake, McHenry, and Will.

The FENCE POST Letters to the Editor

This order of Judge Austin's could also very likely be used to enforce public housing upon communities nation-wide once this precedent is set, if not appealed.

President Nixon himself stated earlier this year that the powers of the Federal Government would not allow segregated practices, yet they would not be used to force economic integration upon communities where in doing so, it would upset or undermine the existing life-style of the areas involved. Judge Austin's decision would do just that.

I invite all individuals, parties, groups, and organizations interested in appealing Judge Austin's decision in the Federal Appeals Court to contact me at my home address, so that we can successfully block this decision before its implementation. Remember! Time is important. Judge Austin's edict mentioned sixty days.

'Bad' Theory

This is in reply to Evelyn Edmundson and her almost unbelievable defense of vandalism. Evelyn said those who destroy Christmas decorations, and other property in the neighborhoods, aren't malicious and destructive. They just act that way, she says, because they're "misguided by their surroundings."

And since Evelyn indulged in a bit of the most "asinine" logic I think I've ever heard, please permit me to offer an analysis of how I view the problem of Evelyn.

You, Evelyn, are scared. You're full of self doubt and have a guilt complex about your affluent surroundings. Your conscience, for some reason, must be giving you a hard time. That's my theory. (Maybe the devil made 'em do it.)

But here's something, Evelyn, I can tell you for sure. Mixed up people like you are no help in solving problems such as vandalism to Christmas decorations.

You, Evelyn, are the problem . . . or a big part of it.

Thanks For Blood

Members of our family would like to thank the many persons who answered the appeal in The Herald for blood donors for our late husband and father, Mr. Joseph Keller, who died in Alexian Brothers Medical Center from leukemia.

We wish to especially thank Prince of Peace Church and Cub Scout Pack 195 of Schaumburg for their help.

We have been notified by Alexian Brothers that the excess blood will be donated to another leukemia victim.

The method is simple.

Go to the Bank of Elk Grove and open a  $5\frac{3}{4}\%$  Premium Golden Account of \$200 or more. Interest will be compounded on your money continuously for an effective annual rate of 5.92%.

Or open a flexible 5% Golden Harvest Account of $200 or more. Additional deposits, of any amount, may be made at any time and begin earning an effective annual interest rate of 5.13% the very day they are made.

Any Golden Harvest funds which have been on deposit for at least 90 days may be withdrawn during the 10 day period following any of your interest payment dates. Money which you may then decide to leave in your account, or put in another account. Or we will mail you a check.

Any of which is a nice idea. But then, we think the Golden Harvest Account itself is a nice idea.

And when we suggest that you try it, know that we have your best interest at heart.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: I was determined to take the odor out of my child's urine-stained mattress so I tried the granules used to line kitten boxes — and it worked. I used a large sheet crosswise on the box spring and sprinkled on the granules heavily. I then placed the soiled side of the mattress next to the granules. Next pulled up the loose ends of the sheet over the mattress and put on a fitted sheet. This kept it in place. I left it for about two weeks, then reversed the mattress. The odor vanished completely.

—Mrs. Pat N
 You were lucky. While the adsorptive qualities of these granules and also activated charcoal granules are astounding, they don't always work on mattresses if the odor has penetrated deep into the padding.

Dear Dorothy: The bane of my existence is the nylon tape which is wrapped around certain packages. Sometimes, the contents are not worth the struggle. A neighbor just told me she solved the problem by using a beer can opener. Just thought others might like to know about this.

—Ernestine Y.
 Many others. The last time one of those packages came I was almost in tears by the time it was torn apart.

Dear Dorothy: I find that a cart with wheels solved the problem of where to keep my house plants. I wheel it to the proper window for sun for an hour or two, then wheel it back to its regular spot in the living room. The plants have flourished and give me much pleasure all winter long.

—Judy Hart.

Dear Dorothy: When making French dressing, add the yolk of an egg (carefully separated from the white) and mix thoroughly. It will keep the dressing from separating.

Zigzag Better

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — A sewing machine that does zigzag stitching has become more desirable with the popularity of knits and stretch fabrics, says Gerda Petersen, textiles specialist at the University of Nebraska.

An ordinary zigzag machine makes it possible to do mending, darning, over-casting of seams, stitch buttonholes and at least one kind of stretch seam. The seamstress who makes girdles finds the zigzag the best machine for this purpose, says Miss Petersen.

They Welcomed 1972 With A Ring

Donna Walter

Anita Mueller

Christine Robinson

A summer wedding in Vermont is planned by Donna Jeanne Walter of Montpelier, Vt., and Craig Douglas Deehring of Arlington Heights. It is announced by her parents.

Donna is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Walter of Montpelier, formerly of Arlington Heights. Craig's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. Deehring, 1408 N. Vail, Arlington Heights.

Donna and Craig, both '69 graduates of Arlington High School, now attend Western Illinois University in Macomb. Craig, a business administration major, also serves as treasurer of Eta Upsilon chapter of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. A member and past president of Chi Alpha Xi, Donna is majoring in home economics.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Mueller of Rolling Meadows announce the engagement of their daughter, Anita Marie, to James H. Frank II, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Frank Sr. of Toledo, Ohio.

The couple became engaged in Columbus, Ohio, where they both attend school.

Anita is a '69 graduate of Forest View High School and is now an art education major at Capital University.

Jim, a Capital University graduate, is now enrolled in the Evangelical Lutheran Theological Seminary in Columbus.

No wedding date has been set.

Rev. and Mrs. Gerald B. Robinson, 820 N. Wilshire Lane, Arlington Heights, announce the engagement of their daughter Christine to Albert E. Perkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Perkins, Madison, N.J.

Chris graduated from John Hersey High School and is now a sophomore at Knox College, Galesburg, Ill., where she is majoring in physics.

Al graduated from Knox College and is presently doing graduate work at the University of Iowa in Iowa City.

The couple plans a June wedding.

The Future Of Playgrounds Designed For Kids' Play

by ALLEN SNODDY

NEW YORK (NEA) — From all the noise about youth being in the driver's seat heard on TV or radio and spread through daily newspapers, the strong arm of the adult still reigns over children's play habits. Setting out to break what he considers a stifling grip is a former designer of industrial exhibits.

Jerry Lieberman is a New Yorker by birth and by his own admission a child at heart. Now the father of three, ranging in ages from 5 to 10, he recently said while watching youngsters squirming and sliding over his playground equipment, "I remember games I played as a child better than what I learned in elementary school."

Lieberman studied graphics at Cooper Union school here and backed into designing play equipment for children via displays he did for corporations. For example, he did a show called "Fun with Junk" for PepsiCo.

"IT WAS A SUCCESS, I guess, because I like three-dimensional things and I like my own children," he explained. He took things people normally throw away and made them into items children could play with, on or out of. Such as a Ferris wheel of drinking straws, a forest of mailing tubes and a castle of corrugated boxes. Exhibition jobs beginning in 1964 hooked Lieberman. Since then he has developed about 60 products for playgrounds and although these are too large and expensive for the backyard he is contemplating scaled down units to be sold through Play Systems, Inc.

Lieberman works at home and his office really is his attic case.

His children are lucky guinea pigs who get to test the equipment. Even with this advantage, Lieberman said his children complain he works so much on playground equipment he doesn't have enough time for them.

HOWEVER, HE admitted they're a fertile source of ideas. "My daughter," he said, "wanted a playground in her room. She said she would have some space if she could climb up the wall. So I'm making a vertical playground and furniture and climbing functions to fill in that lost four or five feet above a bed. My daughter designed a slide that goes along her wall like a staircase."

Because of short funds for municipal or school playgrounds and a rigid attitude toward how children should play, Lieberman calls the industry "stagnant."

"I design items to keep away from structured play, to let the kids organize themselves and not be organized by others," he said. Watching more than a hundred youngsters freely climbing, sliding and jumping about on playground equipment set up in the Owens Corning Fiberglas Center helped prove his philosophy.

THE EXHIBIT is open through early January free and is a favorite spot for school groups and as a break in shopping for mom and dad and the kids. The reinforced plastic and steel items include PlayCubes with connecting tunnels, ladders and slides, a Cityscape of porches and secret tunnels, a Saturn planet-shaped unit with slide and portholes, all in cheery reds, blues, greens and yellows.

"You really don't need elaborate equipment for play. The basic idea is to communicate with a child. Children still want to be free to play and I like to design so a child goes off into a structure and the parents have little control. This lets kids experience relating to each other. I also like a structure where children can do many things at one time and not queue up to use it."

Lieberman said there must be an element of danger in play equipment and for a small child this can be a step six inches off the ground. "A completely safe, controlled playground is dull."

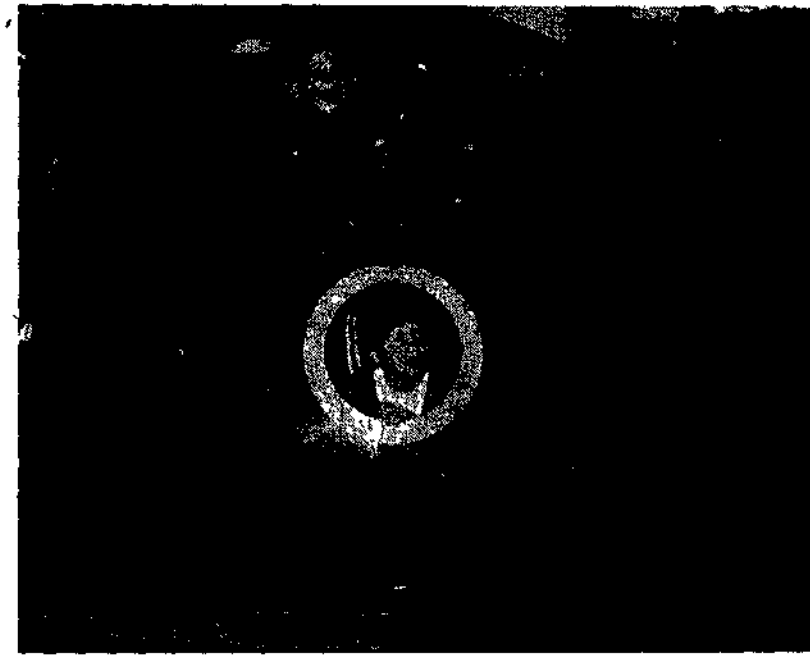

LEIBERMAN ALSO said too many playgrounds being built in model cities, such as at Reston, Va., are designed for the adult and not the child. "The architects go for aesthetics and do mute and woody playgrounds. They're not responding to the psychology of the children. Children like bright color."

All in all, he believes children may be more sophisticated about some things because of TV but their play habits haven't changed much. For this reason he thinks adults should let them play.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

FUTURISTIC PLAYGROUND equipment is here for playing now. Two five-year-olds try out reinforced plastic playground equipment in Manhattan. The cubes and slide and planet-shaped unit are examples of contemporary playground equipment being used in various parts of the United States.

Galvans Wed In Colorado

Kay Winkelmann of Mount Prospect and Anthony Galvan III, Fort Collins, Colo., wrote the vows for their wedding ceremony in Grand Lake, Colo., on Oct. 9.

Kay is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Winkelmann, 120 Busse Road, Mount Prospect. The groom's parents are Mrs. A. Galvan of El Paso, Tex., and Mr. T. A. Galvan II of Broomfield, Colo.

The bride wore an off-white peau de soie gown of Oriental design and an orchid in her hair as she was given in marriage by her father.

Kay's sister Kristi Winkelmann of Mount Prospect was maid of honor. Roxanne Armour, a college roommate from Oak Park, was bridesmaid.

The groom's attendants included Ted Sitzer of New York and the bride's twin brothers Tom and Don Winkelmann of Mount Prospect.

Kay is a graduate of Forest View High School and Colorado State University, Fort Collins, Colo. Anthony now attends the same university after serving four years in the Army.

The couple is now living in Fort Collins.

Richard Nieder Takes Bride

Geraldine Irene Bernard of Chicago became the bride of Richard Dean Nieder of Mount Prospect in a 4 p.m. double ring ceremony at St. Tarcissus Church in Chicago Nov. 27.

The new Mrs. Nieder is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Bernard of Chicago, and Richard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean A. Nieder of 1402 Greenwood Drive, Mount Prospect.

For her marriage the bride chose a gown of white peau de soie with an imported Chantilly lace bodice, bishop sleeves and a long train. Her cathedral length veil was the same one worn by her sister for her wedding. The bridal bouquet was of white orchids, carnations and stephanotis.

Geraldine was attended by her sister, Mrs. Bernadette Lentz, who came with her family from Woodbridge, Va., to be matron of honor, and Janet Nieder of Mount Prospect, the groom's sister; Mrs. Linda Fischer of Chicago and Denise Harms of Chicago, the bride's cousin, bridesmaids.

THE ATTENDANTS were attired alike in dresses of royal blue velvet top and full-length blue chiffon skirt. They carried bouquets of pale yellow and gold baby carnations.

Michael Faklaris flew in from Ft. Benning, Ga., where he is stationed with the U.S. Army, to be Richard's best man. Donald Giuletti of Chicago and Michael Steffens of Elmwood Park, the groom's college roommates, and Ben Gow of Schaumburg were ushers.

A friend of the bride couple, Bob Zawislak, played guitar and sang "The Wedding Song" during the ceremony.

For the wedding and the reception for the 100 guests at Golden Tiara Banquet Halls in Chicago, Mrs. Bernard wore a floor-length royal blue gown and Mrs. Nieder was attired in cranberry chiffon. Both mothers wore white orchid corsages.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dean Nieder ding were the bridegroom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Nieder, who flew in from Fort Collins, Colo.

The newlyweds now are living at the Mill Creek Apartments in Buffalo Grove. Richard is employed by Kemper Insurance Group in Long Grove. He was graduated from Prospect High School in 1965 and Northern Illinois University in 1969. His bride graduated from Taft High School in 1965 and attended Wright Junior College, Chicago.

Antique-Hunting In London Way To See Historic City

by CLARE WRIGHT
Travel Editor

LONDON, England — A great way to see historic London is to go antique-hunting.

But it's best to have a guide — especially if you hope to pick up a few bargains along the way.

A former resident of the northwest suburbs is one of the best guides we've found here.

When it comes to knowing the London antique market, Charles Huege, who was born in Des Plaines and lived for a while in Palatine, can drive a sharp bargain with the best of them, whether it's on raucous Portobello Road or in stylish Brighton.

A lifetime English history buff and antique collector, Huege moved to Britain four years ago.

With London native, Heath Hampstead, he now operates Kendal Galleries, 56 Kendal Street, just off Marble Arch — on the border of the Mayfair section of London.

Anyone planning a British antique safari is wise to look up someone like Huege and Hampstead to lead them to the best places for that rare piece of Wedgwood or Georgian furnishing.

We saw plenty of rare treasures, beautiful relics worth millions, art and furniture masterpieces — and lots of exciting, historic British "color" in the several days we wandered around London and environs with our friends.

We poked through historic homes, browsed in famous auction houses and antique markets — and saw some off-beat spots only English antique dealers know about.

Our first stop was early on a Friday morning (8 A.M.) at Brompton Market on the east end of London, in Cockney Land.

Here we moved through a large warehouse where over 300 antique traders were showing an unbelievable variety of items — clocks, pewter, coins, horse brasses, needlework, porcelain, silver, chandeliers and toys.

"Do you always have to get up so early to make the London antique scene?" we asked.

Huege replied: "No, there are indoor warehouse markets throughout London where the atmosphere is interesting all through the day — and buys in small antique accessories are great."

The largest of these is Antiquarius on Kings Road in Chelsea, he said.

Further west is the "world's end" area of Kings Road which is strictly for dealers — but tourists can go there.

Huege and Hampstead live right off Pimlico Road, and nearby is the elegant, elite Hyper market — almost adjacent to the drive of Princess Margaret's Kensington Palace.

"Don't look for bargains in this market!" we were told.

From the Hyper Market we moved west to Kensington Church street — famous for antique shops and boutiques.

Here along the winding street we browsed through a string of charming shops and looked at some beautiful porcelain and antique jewelry.

We stopped for a wonderful lunch in — of all places — an Italian restaurant — Al Ristoro's.

"Some of the finest period chandeliers England has to offer can be found right around here," said Huege, as we relished our chicken cacciatore.

After lunch we drove south of London to the charming period village of Tunbridge Wells, on the borders of Kent and Sussex Counties.

It would have been fun to spend hours in the Pantiles, a 17th Century colonnaded row of shops.

"Great buys here in period paintings," said Huege.

Also, a gallery run by Timothy Niebel is worth some browsing, especially if you like water colors.

A meandering drive through beautiful country lanes brought us to Knole House, one of the largest and stateliest private houses in England and a marvelous example of Tudor architecture.

"It once belonged to King Henry VIII," informed our friend.

Our favorite spot of all was Brighton with its beautifully preserved Regency houses and fantastic Royal Pavilion (built by George IV for the pleasures of his court and decorated in Chinese style).

It's hard to find a better spot for antique-browsing than in Brighton's 18th-century "Lanes."

We were intrigued to learn that the charming shops were once fishermen's cottages.

Our few days of digging into a few highspots of antique-hunting around London was a little like a "lick and a promise."

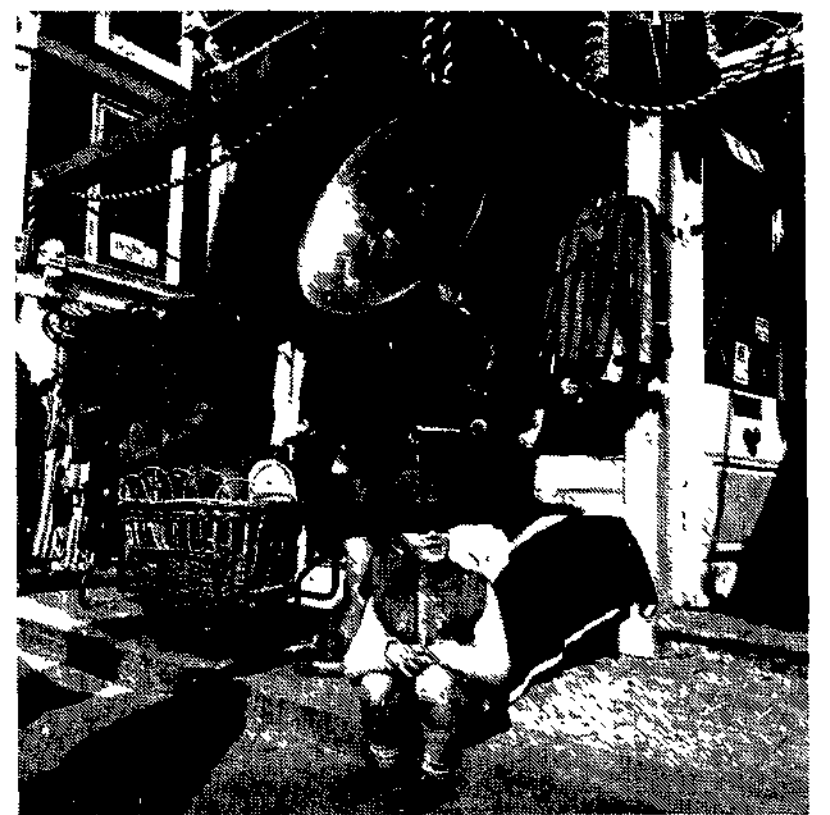

If you're a real dyed-in-the-wool antique buff you might be interested in the "Antiques in Britain Safaris" conducted by British Overseas Airways Corporation.

Several 15-day itineraries are offered. Travelers are taken to important antique centers as well as off-the-beaten-path spots.

Your travel agent can book you on one of these BOAC "Antique Safaris" — or give you more information.

The tours include first-class hotels and transportation in Britain. You can drive yourself, have a chauffeur-driven car — or (and this should really be something!) buzz about Britain in a vintage Rolls-Royce with a liveried chauffeur at the wheel!

The cost is less than you think. Besides — remember the money you save if you buy some antiques. Pre-1870 antiques enter America duty free.

PORTOBELLO ROAD, one of London's oldest markets, can be great fun with its street buskers, colorful vendors and "characters" — and fantastic buys in antiques if you know price and what you're looking for. (British Tourist Authority Photo)

ANTIQUE COLLECTORS find Britain filled with treasures — all part of the country's heritage. Antique buffs can spend days browsing through auction houses, antique markets and shops. The bargains they find can almost pay for the trip because pre-1870 antiques enter the USA duty free. It's best to have an experienced antique guide, however! (British Tourist Authority Photo)

Guide Lines

Question — It's been years since I've visited the Ozarks. Is there still a lot to see and do around Branson, Mo.?

Answer — Yes indeed. Fishermen still go wild over the catches in the three lakes there (rainbow trout in Taneycomo!) Then there's boating, swimming, water skiing and hunting. Shepherd of the Hills Farm is fun to visit. So is Silver Dollar City, historic Ozark mining village, which features demonstrations by local craftsmen, stagecoach and steam train rides, treetop houses, deserted mines and caves. All attractions are open through late October, and the Ozarks are beautiful in the fall.

Question — Are there Iron Curtain conditions in Yugoslavia — or is it a friendly place to visit?

Answer — It's a delightful country! We can hardly wait to go back. The people are friendly, cheerful, cordial — and although the state is a poor one, there is no poverty. The food is good and hotels have lower rates than anywhere in Western Europe.

TRAVEL LORE

by Clare Wright, TRAVEL EDITOR

MYKONOS, Greece — The portly Greek sat with a glass of ouzo in front of him in the crowded sidewalk cafe.

For several minutes he had been staring intently at our young son — who had just carefully counted out 15 drachmas for a bright-colored string of "komboloi" — or worry beads — in the shop next door to the cafe.

"No, no, no, no! — that is not the way you use them," he expostulated in broken English as he simultaneously sprang from his chair.

"Let me show you the Greek way!"

Definitely he fingered the string of beads — flicking them over his thumb in a certain characteristic way that, try as we might, we couldn't seem to imitate.

Worry beads have become a big thing in Greece. They're a kind of folk-art and rank high among Greek handicrafts.

At one time Greek komboloi were big and clumsy and made of dull plastic. Old men in the villages used them to rattle away at the end of a backgammon board.

Then suddenly — thanks to ladies like Melina Mercouri and Jackie O. — Greece became a popular tourist attraction — and a new "mino-komboloi" began to be a popular item in the Athenian and island shops.

Not only are these popular beads available for the small number of drachmas our son paid — but they can be purchased in any number of expensive materials — gold, ivory, turquoise, jade, amethyst or mother-of-pearl.

Quite often komboloi are made out of amber, said to be an old folk-charm against rheumatism.

Then there are some crafted with blue stones which are rumored to be able to kill the "evil eye" — a very potent carrier of all kinds of bad luck.

But we haven't found a single Greek who will guarantee the efficiency of these worry beads.

Quite a number of theatre personalities (often superstitious folk anyway) use worry beads to ward off backstage "jitters."

Actress Julie Harris claims that a set of worry beads brought her some good reviews. And Melina Mercouri, we're told, fingers a set every time she appears on TV to lambast the Greek government.

Bead-fingering — in many religions — is a universal way of counting prayers.

In the eleventh century when the Crusaders came to Jerusalem they discovered the native Arabs worshipping with sets of 100 beads — one for Allah and each of his 99 beautiful names.

The Crusaders brought them back and introduced them into Western Christianity where, with a cross added to the end of the chain, they later became the Roman Catholic rosary.

About the same time medieval Greek elders started copying their Turkish masters and began to use the same kind of beads.

However, they dropped the prayers, and today Greeks deny vociferously that the komboloi have any religious significance.

One Greek we talked to in Athens says he does not believe in the worry beads because they are only intended for idle hands — and "one is not supposed to be idle."

Well, they make great "fun" gifts to bring back from Greece. Our son bought several sets — one for his fifth grade teacher because he figured he had more worries than anyone he knew.

And we learned from a fellow American another great use for Greek worry beads.

"I used them as a substitute for cigarette smoking — and finally kicked the habit!"

Now wouldn't you agree that the bead-fingering — fanatical as it might become — is a far better addiction?

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

AXYDLBAAXR
is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Pat Gerlach

Many Timbercrest residents are amazed to learn of a now tiny (but not always) unmarked, cemetery lying just south of Schaumburg Road in their subdivision.

The plot, containing about 10 graves, belonged to the Schween family, among the original German settlers of Schaumburg.

People who have lived most of their lives in the township tell of visiting the cemetery several years ago; one woman can identify the area by ground myrtle she planted among the graves.

Somewhat, the German-inscribed grave markers have been removed either through builders' mistakes (several back yards are probably less than 20 feet from the grave area) or vandalism.

Members of a community group in Timbercrest feel that when a town loses its landmarks it begins to lose character and are proposing a historical marker to identify the Schween plot.

WATCH FOR AN International House of Pancakes in Hoffman Estates, possibly by mid-year.

BEFORE TOO many weeks have elapsed, Bob Janus of Hoffman Estates could be named an officer in the Illinois Jaycees.

"YOUNG DEMOCRATS," now being formed by the township Democratic Organization, promises to become an active and popular group within the next 10 months.

WORD IS — WALTER P. "Pete"

Wing, Bill Fitzgerald, Sig Thorsen and Sue Jordan are being proposed as members in Schaumburg of a new private club, Citizens Rejected and Unfairly Muzzled (CRUM).

Since April, Thorsen, a former Schaumburg trustee, failed to gain reelection; Wing was relieved from the zoning board of appeals several months prior to expiration of his commission; Fitzgerald was removed from the plan commission; and Mrs. Jordan replaced as secretary to that commission.

Makes one wonder what all four have in common!

IN LIMITING its 1972 boys baseball program, Hoffman Estates Athletic Association (HEAA) may obviously be putting a tight squeeze on the park district for more (and better) playing fields.

LORD OF LIFE Lutheran Church recently finalized purchase of three acres at Wise Road and Thornwood Drive.

Now meeting at Nathan Hale School, the new congregation is an affiliate of the American Lutheran Church. Pastor is the Rev. Carl Kalkworth of the Timbercrest.

CHURCH OF THE Cross (United Presbyterian) has had its Hoffman Estates building for sale since late summer and is believed to be eyeing a Schaumburg site for its possible new location.

Condominium Sale Bill Is Planned

Two bills originating in Hoffman Estates are to be introduced in the Illinois House of Representatives this month. Both are aimed, in a sense, at consumer protection, and relate to multiple-family dwellings.

Condominium unit sales are the special target of a proposed amendment to the Condominium Property Act. The bill would require sellers of condominiums to furnish buyers with specific and complete information on the unit itself, and obligations and restrictions connected with ownership prior to closing a sale.

The other would empower municipal police departments to enforce motor vehicle laws on private property. Two versions are proposed, but both would accomplish basically the same thing. Municipal boards could, on request from owners, direct police to enforce traffic laws on private roads and parking lots in multiple-family developments.

Proponents say the bill is for the safety and protection of apartment and condominium dwellers.

Both bills were drafted by legislative consultants to Rep. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect. But the impetus for them came from Richard Regan, chairman of the Hoffman Estates Plan Commission.

Regan said he felt the legislation was necessary after he and other commission members were asked to help mediate disputes between condominium purchasers and salesmen. Regan visited sales offices of condominium construction firms as a potential buyer and experienced the persuasive techniques used by salesmen. Details are not always clarified in discussions preliminary to a sale, he said.

AND REGAN also believes the nature of the condominium buyer has changed, making more controls on sales techniques necessary. Early units were sold to sophisticated buyers, he said. Frequently they were wary of possible loopholes, more attuned to potential problems.

Condominiums now are attracting less worldly-wise buyers, young couples hoping to build equity or older persons divesting themselves of lawn-mowing and snow-shoveling chores but continuing to own property.

Condominiums are not separate, singly-owned structures, Regan pointed out. One resident may not put up new siding, paint an outer wall, alter the roof line or revamp the plumbing system on his own. Other residents of the same building must be consulted, and must agree. Actual physical ownership in the structure is limited to the paint on the walls and the airspace between them, said Regan.

But the new buyers, many of whom do not consult attorneys, do not recognize all the subtleties. They may accept the idea they own interior roads in their development, without considering the consequences 20 years hence, when the road will need rebuilding.

The proposed condominium act amendment calls for full disclosure before a sale is consummated. Among items the seller must disclose are the declaration of sale, the articles of incorporation of the homeowners' association, the bylaws of that association, the deed to underlying ground, the management contract, a project operating budget for the unit offered for sale and a floor plan of the unit.

THE MANAGEMENT contract is the item from which most condominium misunderstandings seem to grow. Buyers do not know which services are provided in the purchase price, or which carry an additional charge, and are handled by contract. The operating budget is to include an estimate of monthly payments for the unit itself, for maintenance and property management and use of recreational facilities.

The other proposed bill does not deal solely with condominium properties, but applies to any multiple-family development. However, under one version, residents of a condominium, or any purchased unit, could petition the village or municipal board to pass an ordinance providing police authority for traffic enforcement on their private streets. Permission would not be required from all owners, or from the developing firm, but from a majority of owners.

In apartment or rental unit developments, landlords would have to consent to bringing in police supervision. The tenants, since they own no property, would have no authority.

Regan pointed out advantages the tenants would find from police jurisdiction. Parking would not be permitted in front of fire hydrants. Under existing laws, police have no authority to ticket cars in front of hydrants. Firemen could have difficulty reaching hydrants during evening and night hours, when nearly every parking spot in a development is filled. Speed limits also could be enforced.

Police jurisdiction would make apartment complexes safer, said Regan. The same benefits would apply to all other multiple developments.

Regner Tells 'Why' Of Bills

New legislation to be proposed relevant to the sale of condominiums and townhouses in Illinois may not be enough protection for the prudent buyer.

The legislation, if passed, will require persons selling multiple dwelling units to provide "all" information relevant to the unit being sold, including the exact location, said Rep. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect, who will introduce the bill in Springfield on Jan. 12.

Asked how clearly the information will have to be stated, Regner said, "You can say it's clear and 90 per cent of the buyers will understand, but how can you be sure about every person alive?"

"You should have someone (a lawyer) look at it," he said about the sales contracts.

The legislation says only that all facts have to be made available concerning the unit for sale.

ASKED IF the legislation will call for the state to check up on sales people to be certain the law is being followed, Regner said, nothing like that will be proposed "until it proves necessary." To do so would only "build up bureaucracy," he added.

The bill as Regner proposes it, will make it mandatory that a clause be included allowing a buyer out of a contract up to 15 days after the date all information has been made available.

The seller will also have to rerun any money given toward the purchase if the buyer decides to back out within 15 day grace period. Reason for the buyers option is to give people an opportunity to digest all that condominium or townhouse ownership involves.

REGNER HOPES the condominium and townhouse bill, and a second bill allowing municipal police department to patrol privately owned roads will both be proposed next week.

Hopefully, the bills will be reviewed in committee by April 1, and voted on shortly after that date, he added.

The bill allowing village police to patrol private roads in multiple developments was originally conceived in two forms.

One concept would allow private property owners to petition police to patrol their land at no cost to the owners. The other would require the owner pay a fee. The option will be left between the villages and the property owners on an individual basis, Regner said.

In some towns, village officials will be anxious to patrol roads in private complexes as a deterrent to existing problems, he added.

In other villages the police departments won't be able to afford the extra patrols without compensation from the development receiving the service, he added.

Judge Refuses To Fine Amy Huebert's 'Parents'

by MARGE FERROLI

Adoptive parents of 2½-year-old Amy Huebert will not be fined in addition to contempt of court charges for refusing to give up custody of the child to Amy's natural mother, Mrs. Paula Marshall of Arlington Heights.

Circuit Court Judge Helen McGillicuddy yesterday refused to place a $75-a-day fine on both Mr. and Mrs. Barry Huebert of Colorado Springs, Colo. for not following her Illinois court order of Dec. 14 requiring the immediate return of Amy to Mrs. Marshall.

Judge McGillicuddy upheld the contempt charges she found the Hueberts guilty of last week.

Mrs. Sylvia Decker, representing Mrs. Marshall, asked the court to impose the fine until Amy is returned to Illinois and asked the court to prevent the Hueberts from filing any additional motions on the case either in Illinois or Colorado. Both motions were denied by Judge McGillicuddy.

Mrs. Decker said after the hearing that she and Alice Bright, Mrs. Marshall's other attorney, will go "as soon as possible" to Colorado and try to quash juvenile court action there started by the Hueberts in an attempt to retain custody of Amy.

"I think we're going to win there," Mrs. Decker said. "Having the Hueberts found in contempt will be very helpful to us in Colorado."

The El Paso County (Colo.) District Court has set April 24 to begin hearing a suit filed by the Hueberts fighting Mrs. Marshall's contention that Amy was taken from her under fraud and duress, which had been ruled and upheld by Illinois courts.

HOWEVER, THE court action would not be delayed until April if additional motions are filed by Mrs. Marshall in Colorado.

Mrs. Decker said she expected the Colorado courts to quash the Hueberts' motion once full information on the case is provided. She said "false statements" before the Colorado courts, "completely misleading" the courts there.

She said the petition claimed the Hueberts did not know where Mrs. Marshall or her agents could be found, "which is completely untrue."

BOTH OCCUPANTS of the car survived this collision with a tree Saturday morning in Rolling Meadows. A witness said the car was traveling between 80 and 100 miles an hour before it hit the tree and was cut in two.

Both the driver, Ted O'Connor of Schaumburg and the passenger, Richard Rankhorn of Palatine, were still in intensive care yesterday at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights.

Middleton Hearing Resumes

A hearing to determine the mental competency of Dr. James G. Middleton to stand trial recessed without a verdict yesterday after the doctor told the jury that his wife is a former employee of the CIA.

The hearing is scheduled to resume at 11 a.m. today in Criminal Court in Chicago. At that time, attorneys for both sides are expected to make final arguments.

Dr. Middleton, who has offices at 969 Elmhurst Rd., Des Plaines, is charged with two counts of deviate sexual assault and aggravated battery.

If Middleton is ruled incompetent he will be committed for psychiatric treatment until he is able to stand trial. If the jury finds him competent, the trial will begin almost immediately.

Middleton said his wife was employed by the CIA, as he was, while he was relating to the jury an incident in which he claimed he was threatened at his former Chicago apartment.

HE SAID HE and his wife faked an argument to delude a suspicious person in the building. He said they began the argument without a signal because he and his wife think alike, having both been employed by the CIA.

The doctor took the stand after the director of the county's Psychiatric Institute said Dr. Middleton is incompetent to stand trial.

The psychiatrist, Edward J. Kelleher, told the jury he thinks Dr. Middleton is suffering from paranoid schizophrenia — a psychosis — and cannot fully understand the charges nor fully cooperate with his lawyers.

Dr. Kelleher said he reached his opinion after evaluating results of several examinations taken by Dr. Middleton in which most of the responses were "guarded, evasive, and stilted."

He said Dr. Middleton demonstrated a lack of personal involvement, a lack of insight and suffers delusions of persecution.

The psychiatrist said Dr. Middleton once told him that he feared Donald Shaw, a Cook County sheriff's policeman, would obtain the test results and use them in extorting him. Dr. Middleton reportedly said Shaw, the officer who first arrested him, was the leader of a conspiracy against him.

DR. MIDDLETON said yesterday he does not know exactly who or how many persons were involved in the conspiracy or if it still exists. He also charged that Shaw had falsified evidence, changed police records and altered evidence relating to these charges.

Dr. Middleton said he has evidence of a "threat of continuity" dating to 1968 of attempted extortion of him when two women threatened "to get me out of practice."

He also said he has been threatened by Shaw and also by a man Dr. Middleton identified as "code name Frank," who offered to solve all his legal problems for a fee.

"Frank" was later arrested at the doctor's Chicago apartment by Chicago police, but was released without charges.

In a federal court last month, a U.S. treasury agent said this same man told police at the time of his arrest he was hired by Dr. Middleton to murder Shaw.
